

Endurance: Tevis Cup

The Western States Trail ride, popularly called the Tevis Cup, is considered one of the world's best known and most difficult equestrian endurance rides. It follows historically significant wilderness of the Sierra Nevada Mountains from east of Squaw Valley to Auburn, California.

Part-bred indicated by italics; "stb" (said to be) indicates breed information provided by rider and not confirmed outside of the ride list. Some earlier rides did not include horse or breed or indicate placing. When possible, starting and finishing statistics are included in parentheses beside year.

Note: "Alves Encore" (2012) breed was listed as "American" in error in official results. Correct information included here.
